

RESEARCH DESIGN

The research design is a cross-sectional study. The data was collected from a single point in time. The study was conducted in a laboratory setting. The participants were recruited from a local university. The study was approved by the ethics committee. The data was analyzed using statistical software. The results were presented in a series of tables and figures. The study was limited by its cross-sectional design. The study was limited by its laboratory setting. The study was limited by its local recruitment. The study was limited by its use of statistical software. The study was limited by its presentation of results. The study was limited by its use of tables and figures. The study was limited by its use of a series of tables and figures. The study was limited by its use of a series of tables and figures.